The 2023 Division of Revenue Bill (DORB) does not ensure that the Western Cape receives its fair share. The Western Cape receives the 5th largest, and smallest, share of the Provincial Equitable Share (PES) among all provinces. A government that has received 100% unqualified audit reports for all its departments, as the Western Cape Government has for 2021/22, should be rewarded for their fiscal discipline with additional funding. Instead, the province is being punished with a R1.9 billion baseline cut in funding over the MTEF. This second-round impact is on top of a R500 million first-round impact, while the third-round impact against the baseline will only become clear during the 2023 Medium-term Budget Policy Statement.

The PES formula, despite repeated calls from this committee, still leaves several key areas as unfunded. Special needs learners are not considered for the Education PES calculation, and there are no provisions for gender-based violence or safety. Also absent are criteria for good governance, which leads to incompetent governments being rewarded with additional funding, while provinces that have proven their ability to deliver quality services receive less funding.

Overall, the Western Cape's conditional grant allocations over the MTEF will increase by 1.9% (Western Cape Provincial Treasury, 2023b:121). Inflation reached 7.1% year-on-year in March 2023, up from 7.0% year-on-year in February 2023. This means that any increased allocation received, that is below these figures, is in fact a budget cut.

Due to provincial equitable share data input, the Western Cape will see a R1.5 billion decrease in primary healthcare funding over the Medium-term Expenditure Framework (MTEF) (Western Cape Provincial Treasury, 2023b:118). The Western Cape has also been left far behind in the allocation of conditional grants related to health, with the province ranking 6th out of all provinces in terms of their District Health Grant allocation, and 8th for the National Health Insurance Grant allocation (National Treasury, 2023b:47). Homecare for patients is notably not included in the PES formula, meaning that especially care for the elderly and disabled does not factor into health allocations for provinces.

Another area of concern in this bill is the substantial reductions that the province will see in grants for Education. The Maths, Science and Technology Grant (19.37%), the Learners with Profound Intellectual Disabilities Grant (16.66%) and the Education Infrastructure Grant (4.55%) all see less money coming to the Western Cape year-on-year (Western Cape Provincial Treasury, 2023a:177).

Despite around 88 000 of the 112 000 first time students in the Western Cape over the past five years coming from the Eastern Cape, the Western Cape still receives around R600 million less than the Eastern Cape for education infrastructure. In addition, the Western Cape last year spent 100% of its Education Infrastructure Grant, while provinces like the Eastern Cape and Mpumalanga have failed to do so, last year saw their infrastructure funding redistributed to provinces, like the Western Cape, who have the capacity and will to use it. Still, the Western Cape only receives 5th most funding for Education Infrastructure, meaning that once again the Western Cape is being punished for good governance (National Treasury, 2023b:43).

In other important education grants, the Western Cape ranks in the bottom half of all provinces by allocation, ranking 6th for the HIV/AIDS Life Skills Education Grant, 7th for the Early Childhood Development Grant, and 8th for the National School Nutrition Programme Grant (National Treasury, 2023b:46). It must be noted that the Western Cape was the only province to feed children at school during COVID, the rest of the country took the rest of the provinces to court for not feeding children, and they won. Once again, this provincial government is being disadvantaged for serving our residents.

For Human Settlements, an area of great need in the Western Cape due to rising population, the province will rank below both Gauteng and Kwa-Zulu Natal in the allocations for the Human Settlements Development Grant, and the Informal Settlements Upgrading Partnership Grant, receiving less than half of Gauteng's allocation in both instances.

The Western Cape also receives the third lowest allocation of any province for the Extended Public Work Programme grant, meaning that less money is available for job creation in the province. The Mass Participation and Sport Development Grant sees a 31.47% cut in funding year on year, with the Western Cape again ranking 5th for this allocation (National Treasury, 2023b:49).

In terms of grants for Agriculture, a massive source of employment in the Western Cape, the province ranks second-last in the allocations of the Comprehensive Agricultural Support Programme (CASP) grant, the Ilima/Letsema Projects grant, and the LandCare Programme grant. The allocations are comparable to those of Gauteng, a much less agriculture intensive provincial economy.

No new conditional grants to enable provinces to deal with the energy disaster have been created. It must be noted that a total of R517 million in provincial and municipal disaster response funding remains unallocated (National Treasury, 2023b:54). Should this money have been split equally between provinces, equitable share notwithstanding, each province would have had an additional R57 million to mitigate the effects of loadshedding on residents. In terms of the Western Cape Government's energy response, this money would have roughly funded, over the MTEF, the entire R55.5 million budget for alternative energy support for SMMEs, or almost the entire budget of R60 million for emergency power packs or Green Hydrogen Development (Western Cape Provincial Treasury, 2023b:110).

According to Eskom's latest annual report, the entity had irregular expenditure of R67.1 billion in the 2021/22 financial year. The Western Cape's entire R1.1 billion budget for energy over the MTEF amounts to 1.64% of Eskom's irregular expenditure, and yet National Government has seen fit to take on even more of Eskom's debt, rather than capacitating competent provincial governments to address the energy crisis on another front. The Western Cape's PES allocation is R58.9 billion, this means that Eskom's irregular expenditure could have paid for the whole Western Cape Government budget, with almost R10 billion in change, which is the equivalent of almost 10 Western Cape Energy Response plans.

In addition, this bill does not make sufficient provision for the public wage increase which has been reported at 7.5%, with the result that money will need to be moved from service delivery targets to cover the higher than expected wage increase. This Bill further allocated no money to fight corruption.

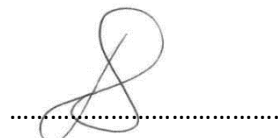

The DORB further reports that "[g]ross loan debt is expected to increase from R4.73 trillion (71.1 per cent of GDP) in 2022/23 to R5.06 trillion (72.8 per cent of GDP) in 2023/24 and will peak at R5.84 trillion (73.6 per cent of GDP) in 2025/26." This all while, Eskom will be bailed out to the tune of R254 billion. South Africa cannot continue to borrow to fund expenditure in this manner. The poorest people will have to bear the biggest impact of this bill. This bill will bring more suffering to the poorest people within South Africa due to it having become an incapable state.

The Committee welcomes the following:

1. Clauses regarding the process regarding litigation and intergovernmental disputes;
2. The review of criteria and objectives of grants, such as the Emergency Housing grant being closed and forming part of departmental funding, for better spending objectives; and
3. Clauses tightening up procedures regarding non-spending of conditional grants that go directly to local government municipalities.

Minority View

In terms of Standing Rule 90, the African National Congress and Al Jama-ah expressed its minority view to support the Bill.
